Philanthropic Foundations in International Development

Rockefeller, Ford and Gates

Patrick Kilby, Australian National University, Australia

Series: Routledge Explorations in Development Studies

This book focuses on the influence of philanthropic foundations in global development, and on how the global south has engaged with them. It brings together case studies of the most influential foundations over the last one hundred years: the Rockefeller, Ford, and Gates' Foundations, investigating their impact on education and research, health and agriculture.

The sheer scale of resources that foundations can devote to their work results in significant influence in global politics. This influence is likely to grow in the post-Covid environment, making this book an important resource for researchers, practitioners and policy makers working on global development.
